

The primary purpose of our presence on the Internet is to provide helpful and valuable information to people visiting our site. Your privacy is important to us and we are committed to protecting it and to making you aware of our online practices regarding the privacy of your information.

Information Collected

Our Web site does not automatically collect any individually identifiable information from visitors. The only information we collect from a visitor would be information that is included when an electronic inquiry is made through our website. For example, the visitor's email address and any other information contained in the inquiry. We collect personal information when you provide it in the course of interacting with the site.

In addition, we may collect information that is not personally identifiable, such as the type of browser you are using (Mozilla or Internet Explorer, for example), the type of operating system you are using and the domain name of your Internet service provider (America Online, MSN, Earthlink etc.).

How the Information is Used

We may use the information you give us to provide information to you, at your request. We may use it to communicate with you through periodic messages regarding services, events and other information and notices we believe you may find interesting or useful. We do not provide our mailing lists to external organizations. Any personal information you provide to the Jewish Child & Family Services at our website will not be disseminated to third parties.

We may use the information that is not personally identifiable to analyze the design and functioning of our site in order to make site improvements. We may use such information in the aggregate to analyze site usage.

Security

JCFS takes appropriate measures to ensure the security of your personal information and to protect it from unauthorized access.

Patient Privacy Practices

On April 14, 2003, the Federal Office of Civil Rights began enforcing new rules to ensure this trust between patients and their healthcare providers. As part of those new rules, healthcare providers will be required to obtain your signature in acknowledgement of how the hospital/provider uses and shares your personal health information.
